ENTIRE COMMITTEE VOTE FAVORABLE TO PRESIDENT ON FIRST CONTEST PRESENTED.

TAFT GAINS ALABAMA

Looks Now As Though National Committee Will Vote Almost As a Unit in Favor of Taft on Contested Delegations.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, June 7.—President Taft won the first of the contests for seats in the republican national convention held by the republican national committee today when by a vote of 53 to 0 a unanimous decision—the contest over the Alabama delegates at large—was decided in favor of the “long” (Taft) delegation.

Senator Dick representing the Taft claim to the Alabama delegates, claimed that the Taft delegates at large were elected by the state convention in conformity with the national committee's official call following invalidation by the national committee which decided that the election of delegates prior to the national committee meeting was irregular.

The Roosevelt delegates Senator Dick claimed were elected at a separate convention which he contended was illegal and void. The Roosevelt attorneys led by Mr. McIlwain and Mr. Hundley, claimed complete regularity for their delegates. They asserted that J. O. Thompson and his delegates had been recognized by the republican national convention of 1908 as “the regular or Thompson faction.”

This state contest involves the delegates at large and the district delegates from the first, second, fifth and sixth and ninth districts, only eight of Alabama's 24 delegates instructed for Taft are undisturbed.

Another attempt was made at the beginning of the session by the Roosevelt forces to secure a committee roll call by the request of eight members. Senator Borah renewed the fight last yesterday to strike out the requirement of 20 votes for a roll call. Senator Borah's motion was tabled by a viva voce vote.

This result crystallized the impression that the 39 to 13 vote of yesterday really represents the relative Taft and anti-Taft strength in the committee. The members from South

Special Train Convey Large Delegations to Capital—Monster Street Parade to Be Held.

Washington, D. C., June 7.—A number of special trains reached the capital today with delegations to attend the unveiling of the great Columbus memorial recently erected on the plaza in front of the union station. The unveiling will take place tomorrow and the event promises to be one of the most notable of the kind that has ever taken place in this country. It is conservatively estimated that 100,000 visitors will be in attendance. They are on their way from every section of the United States and Canada. The most of them are members of the Knights of Columbus, which organization is to have charge of the ceremonies of the day.

The unveiling is to be preceded by a monster street parade, which is expected to equal in numerical importance the presidential inauguration pageants. In addition to the Knights of Columbus and representatives of other civic bodies the marchers will include thousands of soldiers, sailors and marines. Gen. H. H. Evans, chief of the militia division of the War Department, will act as grand marshal.

Secretary of State Knox will preside at the unveiling ceremonies. The invocation will be by the Rev. Mr. Thomas Shannon, rector of the Catholic University of America. The initial address will be delivered by Chief Justice Victor J. Dowling of the Supreme Court of the State of New York. Marquis Casati Confalonieri, Italian ambassador to the United States, will unveil the statue. President Taft will then address the assembly, as will also Representative James T. McIlwain, who was instrumental in having the Columbus memorial bill passed by Congress. The United States Marine Band will incorporate the program with musical selections.

Charles P. Taft.

Let worst come to worst, President Taft is absolutely certain of one vote at the Chicago convention. Others may desert, but this one will remain steadfast till the bitter end. His name is Charles P. Taft, and he is a brother of the president. Charles P., whose home is in Cincinnati, is one of the delegates-at-large from Ohio. He is a multi-millionaire, and is contributing very liberally to the president's campaign fund.

The prospect that Colonel Roosevelt may come to Chicago next week to personally conduct his campaign before the national convention, had attracted attention today over the national committee's affairs.

The demands for publicity were conceded to the Taft and Roosevelt leaders and the work taken up in the Alabama contest comes.

The stand of William Flynn of Pennsylvania in making the presentation to the Roosevelt contested cases will not be made public until tonight when Mr. Flynn arrives with news of his Oyster Bay conference.

Lines were sharply drawn for the opening of the fight for the contested delegates to the republican convention.

The Taft delegates in the first and second Alabama district gave the Roosevelt men in the 2nd the right to go before the convention. The vote was unanimous in both cases.

Fifth Alabama district (2 votes) decided for Taft. Sixth Alabama (2 votes) decided for Taft.

George W. Perkins of New York arrived today and registered at a Michigan avenue hotel. Mr. Perkins was confident that Col. Roosevelt would be nominated.

“There is no question that Roosevelt will be nominated,” he said. “The convention will be too wise to nominate a man certain to be defeated and Col. Roosevelt will be their choice. I am very enthusiastic over the outlook.”

New York, June 7.—“If they act honestly there will be no occasion for anyone to quit,” said Colonel Roosevelt today, of the report from Chicago that an attempt would be made to bind all the delegates to the national convention to support the nominee of the convention whoever he may be. The Colonel again said he had not decided whether or not he would go to Chicago.

Late this afternoon all of the Alabama contests had been decided and the entire twenty votes from that state were credited to the Taft column. The vote of the committee was unanimous in this respect.

BAND OF RAIDERS WHO ATTEMPTED TO BURN SUGAR MILL DRIVEN OFF BY PRIVATE GUARDS.

Gunboat Petrel Ordered to Key West and Collier Lebanon Sent to Join Vessels of Fourth Division in Cuban Waters—Marine Forces Landed.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Havana, June 7.—A body of negroes armed with rifles attacked the Toledo sugar mill at Marlinas, a suburb of Havana, at two o'clock this morning, evidently with the intention of burning it. They were held at bay by private armed guards, but the firing continued until a troop of cavalry summoned by telephone from Camp Columbia appeared when the insurgents vanished.

Raiders Escaped. Pursuit of the raiders was impossible owing to the darkness and down-pour of rain. The torrential rains began three days ago and continue north throughout the island, interrupting telegraph communication with the province of Oriente. The lowlands of Pinar del Rio are submerged and much damage has been done. The peasants are seeking refuge in the towns. Railroad communication is interrupted.

Col. Orestes Ferraz, speaker of the house of representatives, unexpectedly sailed from Havana this morning for the United States by way of Key West. The object of Col. Ferraz's visit to the United States is not known, but it is believed he is acting as the special agent of President Gomez to Washington.

Want Arms Rushed. Washington, June 7.—The Cuban government is pressing for the speedy delivery of 10,000 Krags-Jorgensen rifles and ammunition to arm the volunteer guard that President Gomez proposes. The war department, now is preparing the shipment for transportation to Key West.

The Petrel, with a company of marines aboard, has been ordered to Manzanillo in the western part of Oriente province, to investigate conditions. The gunboat Petrel, which has been cruising on the Mississippi, has been ordered to Key West. The Collier Lebanon is proceeding from Key West to join the fourth division at Guantanamo.

More Marines Landed. Santiago, June 7.—The United States gunboat Paducah last night landed fifty marines under Admiral Philip Torrey at the El Cuero minor and sixty marines under Captain Gullio at Punta de Sal. These garrisons will be increased as soon as possible as they are considered to be insufficient at present for the protection of the property there.

May Send 5,000 Troops. Washington, June 7.—The general staff of the army today issued preparatory orders for the dispatch of a military expedition of 5,000 troops to Cuba. The four big army transports now at Newport News were ordered to be put into commission with provisions and supplies. Orders also were sent to the army post, from which the troops will be drawn to have them in readiness for the movement. The troops will be taken from Hattiesburg barracks, Fort Porter, Niagara and Governor's Island, N. Y., and Forts McPherson and Oglethorpe in Georgia.

Fought With Rebels. In reporting the handling of the marines to the navy department the commander of the Paducah reports that conditions appear quiet in the vicinity of El Cuero and that his vessel has returned to Santiago. The gunboat Eagle has been ordered to cruise between Daiquiri and Siboney. A statement by Gen. Estranco the insurance chief denying that the raid was a mere war or that the insurgents had been guilty of wanton outrages was made public at the state department today.

It came from Estranco through George Collier, the American ranch owner who was reported captured. Estranco says at Key West that the negroes in Cuba have been deprived of his constitutional rights. At the war department it was emphatically stated that if the expeditionary forces did go to Cuba it would not be with any thought of political interference in the affairs of the island government. The principal object would be to aid Cuba in restoring order.

President Gomez was notified last Wednesday that the United States would intervene in a substantial military way to restore order in Cuba unless his own army made some immediate progress. The proclamation which Gomez has issued to the Cuban people calling upon them to aid in suppressing the rebels, is believed to be directly attributable to Secretary Knox's note.

Last night eighty negroes raided a ranch within eight miles of Guantanamo where a hundred marines are stationed.

ALL LODGE TEMPLES MUST BE ASSESSED

Tax Commissioners Haugen States That There Has Been Some Misunderstanding in Regard to Matter.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., June 7.—For ten years in Wisconsin Old Fellow lodges as well as Masonic temples have been subject to assessment. If they have not been assessed, it is either due to negligence or oversight by the local assessor. In some parts of the state it appears the lodges have been assessed and in others not, but Tax Commissioner Nils P. Haugen says that the local assessor should assess such properties.

“Like the Merchants’ and Manufacturers’ association of Milwaukee, some members of the Old Fellows seem to have been under the impression that some new rule in regard to assessment has been promulgated by the tax commission,” said Mr. Haugen. “The question as to the taxability of Old Fellows lodges, Masonic temples, and the lodge properties of other fraternal organizations has been before the commission during every assessment season for ten years; that the commission has never advised that the property of these organizations is exempt; that there is no decision of the supreme court of the state of Wisconsin passing directly upon the question but that the commission has followed the rule laid down by the supreme court that where property is not expressly exempted from taxation it should be assessed.”

Mr. Haugen declared that any doubt in regard to taxability must be resolved in favor of the public. He admitted that there was at least some doubt in the case of the lodges, but that the tax commission has felt obliged “to advise local assessors to assess the property.” He said that the question of the taxation of an Elias lodge in Green Bay and of a Turner hall in Milwaukee had been passed upon by the supreme court, and in both cases the court held the property to be taxable upon the facts proven. The Old Fellows at their state meeting here yesterday appointed a committee to consider the matter of taxation of lodges with the tax commission and to appear before the legislature next winter if that course is deemed advisable. Mr. Haugen was very emphatic in stating to the committee that the construction of the present tax commission in regard to taxability of these lodges is not an innovation but that it has merely followed the rule always held. Undoubtedly the lodges will appeal to the legislature to ask that their organizations be exempted.

BOSTON STREET CAR EMPLOYEES IN RIOTS AS STRIKE BEGINS

Serious Transportation Tie-up Faced When Men Strike for Union Recognition This Morning.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Boston, Mass., June 7.—Violence marked the beginning of the strike of the several thousand employees of the Boston Elevated Street Railway company at daylight. The men refused to work because the demands to recognize a newly formed union by the company were refused. The company refused to deal with them only individually. The street railway cars and the elevated cars are running on about half time. Five arrests followed an assault on a motorman.

Strike Unexpected. Although the strike had been threatened for a week or more it came shortly after 4:00 a. m. with a suddenness and a crash that surprised not only the company's officials, but the police of Boston, Brookline, Cambridge, Somerville, Chelsea, Medford and Malden.

The strike followed an all night meeting and nearly 2,000 men made a rush for the first early morning cars. The first one was met on Pleasant street, near the hall. The car was stopped, the trolley rent from the wire, windows smashed and the motorman and conductor badly beaten. A number of passengers were rushed out of the car but were uninjured.

Respect Mail Cars. As the car was preceded by a mail car which suddenly came in sight the strikers recognized the authorities of the government and those who had attacked the first car suddenly ceased their activities and permitted both cars to break away. A few minutes later the strikers had reached the vicinity of the north side and here two cars were stopped. Windows were smashed and several passengers were slightly injured by flying glass. Several arrests were made at this point.

A crowd coming from the direction of the strike headquarters stopped two more cars at Adams street and violence ensued. Two arrests were made here. One of these being charged with having made an assault on a policeman and the other charged with creating a riot.

Other Outbreaks. A number of strikers rushed down the Cambridge subway and as the car was about to start boarded the car and tried to persuade the train hands to join the strike. They were unsuccessful and the train was stopped for about an hour. The passage between Boston and Cambridge being blocked.

The outbreak in Chelsea was almost as severe as in Boston and also in Everett.

The vote in favor of the strike was 1,389 to 890. Strike leaders said that up to the breaking out of the strike today 320 men had signed union papers. At the same time the company issued a statement that 3,500 employees were remaining loyal and that every effort would be made to keep the car system in operation.

Four hours after the strike the cars began running on nearly all lines but with about half their usual frequency.

ATTEMPTED TO KILL PRESIDENT OF DIET

Three Shots Fired at Count Tisza At Assembling of Lower Austrian House This Morning.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Budapest, June 7.—Count Tisza, president of the lower house, had a very narrow escape from assassination in the session of the diet this morning. He was fired upon three times by deputy Julius Kocs who then shot himself probably with fatal effect.

The would-be assassin of Count Tisza was one of the most militant leaders in the opposition and was among those who were ejected from the chamber on Monday because of disorderly conduct. He was suspended for several sittings but this morning when the chamber reconvened, he managed to evade the police and found his way into the gallery and shouting “There are still opposition members in the chamber” drew a revolver and emptied it three times in the direction of the president and seemingly sanghoned by his bad marksmanship he put several shots into his own body.

The attack upon the county is a direct outcome of the agitation which has been persisted in since his election as speaker on May 27. Kocs is an opponent of universal suffrage and in this issue his election was contested with a bitterness that culminated in violence in the chamber and bloodshed in the streets.

Free fights occurred around the voting urn and finally the whole opposition party left the chamber and Kocs was elected by the government party. The proclaiming of a big strike followed, there being a riot in which many persons were killed by soldiers and police.

NOW A MAN CAN COLOR UP A BIT AND LAY ASIDE HIS SHROUD

By J. R. HAMILTON
Former Advertising Manager of Wamamaker's, Philadelphia.

In nearly every form of life save man, the plumage is worn by the male. The purpose of the plumage is to attract a mate. But the female of our species being more deadly than the male, has gradually taken possession of this plumage for purposes apparent and for reasons of her own.

This has been going on for about eight hundred years, until at the present writing, the clothes of the average, well-behaved man are simply a good contrast for the woman at his side.

For nine months each year a man wears his nice black shroud and his quiet ceremonies submissively. Then he rebels, reverts to elements and goes after a little plumage of his own. Older men begin to look at ties; middle life goes in for hosiery and young men break out in a general rash. For youth, the sky is the limit—and the sunset sky at that.

June is the month of this great masculine revolt.

Every man who has health gets clothes and if he has clothes, he gets more clothes.

This happens to be a year when anything short of a red ash will be acceptable. So the more joy to you. Of course there will be quite a number of “blacks and blues,” but life is always that color to many of us. We are the timid members of the summer colony.

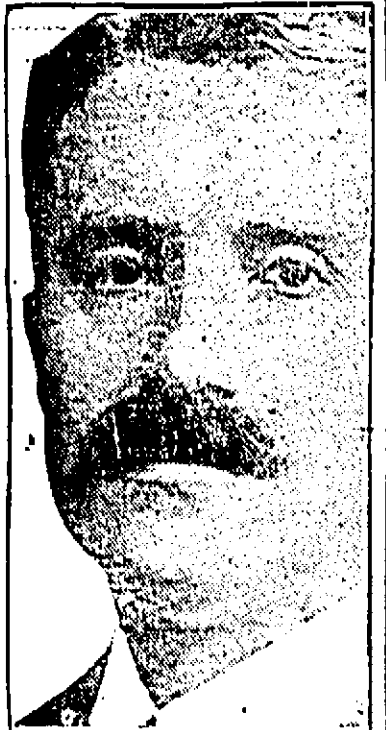

These Advertising Pages today are full of what to wear and how to wear it. You will find young men's clothes here in abundance, and you will probably choose some of them irrespective of your own full rounded years. A little more snap in your clothes won't hurt you. It may put a little more snap into your life. Your hubbublashery too must not be scorned. In summer this is the most important part of the man. There may not be much inside of the shirt, but if the shirt is right, everything is right.

Your shoes also have pretty much to say for your appearance. A man's shoes are either carefully studied or studiously avoided, not according to his feet, but according to his shoe store. Better study the shoe ads; too and not stop short of perfection.

This paper today has plenty of advertising in it to supply every one of your needs. And this advertising is mighty interesting right at this time of the year.

You will find the best of everything here. You need look no further for anything you are going to buy. And this year, above all others, you are probably intending to go the limit on clothes. (Copyrighted)

COLBY REPRESENTS T. R. IN CONTESTS

Bainbridge Colby.

Hon. Bainbridge Colby is representing the claims of ex-President Roosevelt in a legal way before the republican national committee at Chicago in the matter of contested seats. He is a prominent New York attorney.

Dakota and Wisconsin generally are credited to the La Follette interests. Senator Borah said he knew the other side had the votes to seat any delegates they desired to. “But 50 millions of people are watching this committee's sessions,” he said “and we know the record is clear. It will be charged that all interests were not given fair treatment.”

“I do not think the majority of the committee is going to seat anyone who ought not to be seated; but I do insist that the minority in each case be given an opportunity to record their vote.”

“Why should we not leave this record clear so that changes of interpretation or fraud cannot be made against us?”

On motion of Senator Patterson the case of Arizona was passed over by the republican national committee until a later day.

In a statement to the press Mr. McKinley said among other things in referring to the departure of A. P. Moore of Pittsburgh and William Flynn that: “The significance of these byplays is that every time Mr. Roosevelt sends help he admits defeat.”

E. L. Thompson, of Jefferson, Ohio, former reading clerk in the house of representatives was designated today by chairman New of the subcommittee on arrangements to act as parliamentarian of the national convention. In the last convention the position was held by Asher C. Hines, of Maine, now member of congress.

DECISION IN FAVOR OF PARKER COMPANY

Local Firm Wins Case Brought Against Milwaukee Man For Selling Pens Lower Than Licensed Price.

George R. Parker, of the Parker Pen Company, has received the decision of the United States District court for the eastern district of Wisconsin, in the case in which he and his company were plaintiffs against D. J. Handler of Milwaukee, for infringement of patents on several "Lack Curve" pens. The case was decided in favor of the local firm by Judge Ferdinand A. Greiner and the facts set forth in the complaint being fully substantiated and upheld.

The court found that the patents on the improvements on the fountain pen which the Parker pen company has an exclusive license under their patent rights to sell and require dealers to sell at the regular retail prices.

As set forth in the complaint the cause for the action was that the defendant D. J. Handler, was selling certain pens manufactured by the Parker company at prices far below the regular retail price required by the license under their patent rights. It was found by the court that "The complaint has established a price at which said pens can legally be sold at retail, and have required all agents and dealers in said patented pens throughout the United States to enter into license contracts authorizing them to sell the same, and providing that the pens sold or furnished by complainants be sold only at the full retail price, such price being uniform for pens of the same size and quality; and no pens have been disposed of by the complainants except upon condition that the prices fixed by the complainants be maintained by the purchasers and all persons acting under them."

The court found that the defendant had been infringing on the Parker patents and ordered him restrained from such further violations especially from selling pens at prices less than the regular figures fixed by the company. It was further ordered that the complainants recover the costs of the suit from the defendants. Mr. Parker's counsel was Attorney O. A. Guntzel and Leverett C. Wheeler. The Parker company has been the plaintiff in similar suits throughout the United States and have been successful in proving their contention in every instance. This is the first case which they have had so near home, however, and the decision is considered an important one in establishing the rights of the company in selling their pens.

FIVE DAYS FOR FOUR DISPENSED BY COURT

None of Quartet of Schooner Pilots Arraigned This Morning Was Able to Pay Fine.

Four over-zealous schooner pilots were assigned to a five days' sojourn in drydock at the county jail by Justice Charles Lange this morning, all confessing to joy-riding on the "Luna" on the 29th of May. John Kohler, Patrick White, and James Ryan were gray and grizzled sailors of the amber and tan-capped crew, but were now employed at a tobacco warehouse. James Ryan told a hard luck story, saying that he had just left the Mexican hospital in Chicago and was on his way to Fond du Lac, John Kohler claimed to have come from St. Paul, but that Pittsburg was his home. James Ryan worked in a shoe factory here up to about a year ago. Since returning he has not been able to get work and got to drinking.

For the Music Room.
No piano can possibly be heard to advantage in a room which is either heavily furnished or is overcrowded with furniture. A good plan to insure the correct temperature of the room in which the piano stands is to keep a growing plant there. No long as the plant thrives you can tell that any changes of heat and cold there may be are not sufficient to affect the instrument.

Obedience to Duty.
The sphere of duty is infinite. It exists in every station of life. We have it not in our choice to be rich or poor, to be happy or unhappy; but it becomes us to do the duty that everywhere surrounds us. Obedience to duty, at all costs and risks, is the very essence of the highest civilized life. Great deeds must be worked for, hoped for, died for, now as in the past.

Duty and Usefulness.
Only to find our duty certainly, and somewhere, somehow, to do it faithfully, makes us good, strong, happy and useful men, and tunes our lives into some feeble echo of the life of God.—Phillips Brooks.

Not Worth Repeating.
Kind Lady—"But that isn't the same story you told me the last time you were here." The Hobo—"Course is ah't. Youse didn't believe de odder one."

Modest Precaution.
"Why do you insist on so much red tape in your department?" "Because," answered the official, "we're only human and liable to make mistakes, and we want to put 'em off as long as possible."—Exchange.

GIVES INVITATION TO OLD COMRADES

Owen E. Newton, Formerly of Janesville, Asks Members of Local Post To G. A. R. Encampment.

In a letter to L. M. Nelson, adjutant of the W. H. Sargent post G. A. R., Owen E. Newton, formerly resident of this city, but now of Los Angeles, Cal., invites his old comrades to the grand encampment of the G. A. R. which will be held at Los Angeles in September. Following is his letter which will be of interest to the older Janesville residents:

"It is now forty years since I ceased to reside in Janesville and I presume there are but few there that I could even claim as acquaintances. If there are any in your post that were members of the 12th Wisconsin Battery or, in fact, anyone that intends to come here during the grand encampment, I would certainly enjoy having them call on me.

"There is no city in the United States that has so many ex-soldiers and from every state in the union, and I might say every regiment that was in the service, are there are in Los Angeles. The state appropriated $25,000, the county $15,000 and the committee expects to raise $10,000 more, to entertain the 'Boys in Blue.' Los Angeles has never failed to do her duty to visitors and I don't think she will fail this time. The boys can count on having a good time. With kind regards to all, I am,

Yours faithfully,
Owen E. Newton,

DAN McCARTY

Jack Johnson has not in wrong with the baseball management at Las Vegas. N. M. Jack's training quarters have proved such an attraction for the fans that the base-games are deserted.

Owen Moran says if he wins his fight with Jack White at Los Angeles on June 8th will remain in the west and fight the winner of the Volkmann-Hitters battle July 4.

Rube Waddell, once the greatest pitcher in baseball, fears that his good-left-arm, has lost its last bit of speed. It has been some a great deal of late. Rube is with Minneapolis.

Joe Dawson, the youth who won $35,000 in prizes at the swopstakes race in Indianapolis, may quit auto racing. He says he has heard the call of the ranch and believes he will buy one.

The New York Nationals have got the pennant clinched. Make no doubt about it. Your Uncle Daniel never offers a prediction unless he's dead sure, and about this pennant race he's more than dead sure. That is, New York has the pennant unless some dire disaster befalls the team. Chicago showed a little strength at the beginning of the season, but it now appears that the Reds are on the way back and will soon be sitting down. No other team in the league has anything like the strength of New York.

About the only prediction we have to offer concerning the American league pennant race is that one team will win and the others lose. Almost every team in the league, except perhaps St. Louis, expects to get that pennant. Chicago hasn't a mortgage on that place, and no one is going to be much surprised if she drops out in the near future.

Dan McGughlin, the former Michigan football star and now coach of the Vanderbilt eleven, has been placed in charge of the Nashville baseball club of the Southern league. Dan says he wants to get out of professional baseball as soon as possible, as his heart is in amateur athletics.

"Cowboy Jess" Willard, the heavy weight who is under the management of Charley Cutler, will meet Luther McCarthy in a 10-round bout at Fort Wayne on July 4.

E. E. Coleman, manager of the Muscatine, Ia., club in the Central Association league has resigned. He says it is impossible to secure a first division team on the salary limit and claims every manager in the league is over the prescribed limit.

OIL FOR FUEL.

Every now and then some pessimistic mind is disturbed over the future outlook, and dire predictions are made concerning the danger of exhausting the great storehouses of nature.

The anthracite coal supply has been carefully computed and a limit of half a century placed on the output.
 When the stock is exhausted, these anxious trouble-brothers conclude that the nation's industries will be idle and everybody will be bothered with cold feet during the long winter months.

It is always well to remember that the God who created and filled the storehouses, also created man with a brain of large capacity and a mind capable of rare development. And so it happens that great discoveries and inventions, which revolutionize conditions, are made from time to time, and the depleted supply stations are replenished.

Common iron is converted into the best quality of steel, and Portland cement is made in every hamlet. A combination of the two solves the problem of construction work and gives the forests time to recuperate.

While Edison and other American inventors and discoverers have blessed the world, the people of other lands have not been idle. The Diesel engine, which promises to solve the problem of fuel for ocean-going craft, is the product of the brain of Dr. Rudolph Diesel of Munich. An editorial in the Boston News Bureau has this to say about this wonderful engine and what it has already accomplished.

"The steamship of the future—in the interval before the air liner—will be a misnomer. It will not depend on steam from coal, but upon vapor from oil. Advertisements of the size of smokestack funnels will vanish; the new liner will be simply a gigantic motor boat.

"The pioneer large craft of this type, the Selandia, of 7,000 tons, was built in Denmark in February, for the East Asiatic company. After proceeding to London and Antwerp, where she aroused great maritime curiosity, she made a splendid voyage of 9,000 miles to Shum, ended late in April. A sister ship is almost launched, a third is under way, and two more, each of 10,000 tons, are contracted for.

"In the new scheme of things a spray of oil is ignited directly in the engine cylinder, the explosion driving the piston.

"Dr. Rudolf Diesel of Munich, the inventor, is thus tardily finding acceptance for his claim that the world's shipping need no longer be slave to coal. His Diesel engine is passing out of its technical and financial probation. It has demonstrated that it can, with 0.4 pound of fuel, do what the steam engine needs 1.46 pounds of coal to perform; its 100 tons of oil can drive the ship as far as 350 tons of coal. The oil fuel, stored in bottom tanks, saves valuable bunker space; and the Diesel engine itself occupies but a fraction of the room its rivals need.

"The first Diesel enterprises have now been consolidated into a company with $2,137,000 issued capital, of which $1,385,000 will go into a plant. Simultaneously another company, the builder of the Selandia, making an adaptation of the Diesel type,
 has been floated with $2,750,000 capital.

Such combination engines mark another stage in the swift procession of liquid fuel, on sea and land. At sea the British navy has been liberally experimenting with oil, has bought vast quantities from the Shell company—which has also just sold London General Omnibus 200,000 tons—and would buy more if sure of transport and of depot equipment at naval bases.

"At the same time the land use of oil is swiftly multiplying quite apart from the automobile and the motorboat. In Egypt, Canada, Africa, and even India, oil traction engines for transport are becoming common. Motor cargo boats, canal barges and lighters are now numerous on the Thames. Oil is being more used in smelting. On some of our western roads the gasoline motor has supplanted unprofitable branch trains;
 roads abroad are using a combination of petrol and electric motor.
 Several of the great South American nitrate companies have just abandoned coal in favor of oil, just as coal has been supplanted on southwestern and Mexican railroads, which find thereby an advantage of seven to four.

"Hence are oil prices rising abroad and here. Hence are the prices of ordinary stocks of foreign oil companies 35% to 100% higher than a year ago. And hence, also, combined with the revolution of long-marched wealth—are the Standard Oil subsidaries worth more as parts than they were as a whole."

"Thus it will ever be, and there is no occasion to worry about nature's resources. The world is old but the race is young and eager to grasp the opportunities which promise so much in the way of great possibilities.

The human floods who vented their spite on a lot of horses in Chicago, Wednesday night, should be caught and punished to the full extent of the law. Strikes are bad enough, but when dumb animals are made to suffer, to gratify the vengeance of rival tamers, it is time to call a halt. The humane society should exercise every effort to bring the guilty parties to justice. Druses of this kind should be looked up for life. They have no right to be at large.

The preliminary work of the republican national convention is now in full swing, and the public will be ad-full quota of reporters in attendance.
 view of all that happens, as the sessions are out in the open with a
 "The numerous contents may not all be settled to the satisfaction of Colonel Roosevelt, but they will be treated fairly, and in the interests of justice.

The Chicago Tribune is having a spasm because the Ohio convention, composed of republicans from all parts of the state, elected half a dozen delegates for Taft. The Tribune has played the Roosevelt boom to the limit, and then some. If he should fail to be nominated by the Chicago convention there will be nothing left for the paper to do but organize a new party, and it may be perplexing to find a leader. The colonel is a good deal of a fighter, but he is also a good deal of a man.

There are more people astride the political fence, just now, than at any time in the history of the country.
 The winning side is always attractive to human nature, but the odds are so evenly divided that the "top rail" will continue to be attractive until the Chicago convention gets in its work.
 The rank and file are usually satisfied with the verdict of the men who represent them, and they will be in this case.

The Kansas wheat crop is very promising and with favorable weather for the next twenty days the yield will exceed that of last year, which was seventy-seven million bushels.
 The harvest will begin about June 25
 and from twenty to thirty thousand extra hands will be required to care for the crop. There is no occasion for idleness during the summer months, at least.

The Standard Oil company was dissolved and re-organized at an expense of five million dollars to the company.
 This may have something to do with an advancing market which annoys the ultimate consumer. Just what the government gained in the transaction is not visible to ordinary vision.

How to Build a Bungalow.

There is probably nobody in this world who hasn't at some period in his career desired to own a bungalow.
 A bungalow is a long, low, rakish looking house with a porch in front and an ash can behind. You get into it by going on your hands and knees and you crawl out backward for there generally isn't room inside to turn

FOR CORRECTION.

This little poem was recently published in another paper but was so dis-tortured by typographical errors that the Gazette reproduces it at the request of the author.

The Lost Souls of the Titanic Mark! cries were heard above the deeps
 Loud heart-rending piercing shrieks
 Of lives that were lost whom none could save
 For dark waves washed them into a silent grave
 Down into the deep where huge reptiles lie in wait Tormentors of half-bred of human bait
 To feast upon. There those bones will bleach
 In silence. For no mortal hand can reach Them, 'mongst the realms of coral grand Unknown horrors of an unknown land.
 But the souls, were the souls too lost
 In the deep,
 In the darkness of night, did they sweep
 Into the maelstrom of the River of Lost
 Onward, over onward, not counting
 the cost, Eternal life! Led on by the glitter of gold,
 By the smiles and the sighs of the young and the old,
 The way so pleasant, the path so smooth,
 Who would choose the other, unpleasant and rude,
 And full of briars and thorns—bleeding feet
 From climbing the rocks high and deep, Rest in Peace, oh, ye souls. If the rough path ye tread,
 "Till you stand before your Maker, Lord and God!"

Perils of Utilitarianism.
 Any nation which should so narrow its energies as to follow what are called purely practical lines would soon fall behind its competitors, and use its intellectual life fade and wither.
 Any university which so restricted its field would be unworthy of its calling, and would discharge even the practical part of its high functions far less effectively.—Ambassador Bryce.

A Cheerful Disposition.

It is well to be cheerful of disposition, to wear a bright face, to speak in a happy tone, to be lively in action
 —it "doth good like a medicine," is a tonic to others as well as a benefit to one's self. It is infectious in disease, encouraging and spirits in those about one, as well as stimulating healthy joys of life in one's own mind.

The Meat Question

If you think you must economize in your meats, do not make the mistake of buying poor quality. Get the best if it does cost a little more—better eat less of it.

Fresh meats are always to be found at this market. We take particular care in the handling of our meats. We have nothing but the best the market affords. Now have some of the best families in the city to cater to and we sold their custom by giving good meats, courteous treatment and prompt delivery.

From beginning to finish the flavor of our meats is excellent. All meats come from young stock and possess that juiciness, tenderness and delicious taste which is entirely absent in meat from older animals.

The central part of the continent is covered by a great area of high atmospheric pressure today. This is the source of generally fair and cool weather in the Central states. Centers of low pressure occur around the central area of high pressure, one off the New England coast, another in the Gulf of Mexico, one in Arizona, and another on the North Pacific coast. More or less rain accompanies all of the disturbances, so that the Atlantic and Gulf coasts, the Rocky mountain region, and the Pacific coast are marked by cloudiness, and showery weather. Heavy rain falls occurred at Atlantic City, 1.25 inches; Charleston, S. C., 2.68 inches; Tampa, 1.32 inches.

OH, WHAT WOE TO BE A MULTIMILLIONAIRE

Being a multimillionaire may have its slight advantages, but it also has heavy disadvantages, thinks Vincent Amor, the young gentleman who will shortly come into possession of a $100,000,000 estate. One of the disadvantages is the flood of mail which surges in upon the possessor of great wealth.

young Vincent has become the subject of great solicitude to several thousand correspondents. Letters by the hundred have poured in upon him.

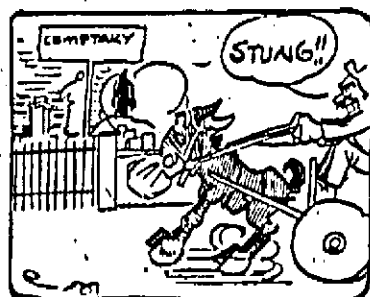

Very few women in America seem not to have availed themselves of the opportunity of writing to poor Vincent. The epistolary efforts have ranged from scintillating missives to rather effusions of advice. Old women and young women, braves and demure, thin and fat, pretty and ugly, have taken their pen in hand, not without hope of gain.

The spirit of the missive varies from bursts of superheated passion to directness and simplicity.

POLICE! HELP! LOT
OF PERSONS DEAD

"Send policeman in a hurry. There are a lot of persons dead" at No. 484 Southport avenue.

This message was received by Sergeant John Buckley at the Sheffield avenue station in Chicago. Hurriedly the patrol wagon was sent to the place, three miles away.

Never was a quicker death made. The police found that their informant had told the truth. Many persons were as dead as they could be, and some had been in that state a long time. "No. 484 Southport avenue" was a part of St. Boniface cemetery.

Detectives are searching for the joker. If they find him he may wish that he were dead before the police get through with him.

Spirit Medium—"Well, don't you know an omelet when you see it?"

"I thought you said I would see the spirit of some member of my family."

Or recent years the cinematograph shows have made great strides in public favor in China until now almost every port boasts of at least one theater and many of five or six.

A Purple Moment.
"Speaking of purple moments," sighed Uncle Eben, "to me there is nothing equal to the agony of seeing your car start around 'Twenty-third street to Lexington avenue when you are under the impression that you are going up Broadway.'"—New York Press.

Uncle Eben.
"It's about come to me conclusion," said Uncle Eben, "that a client and a lawyer sometimes keeps their confidences easy by shifting the moral responsibility back and forth between their sofa."

Dangers of Sentiment.
It is useless trying to explain on sociological, psychological or other mysterious grounds the extraordinary number of crimes committed recently in this country. The cause of the crime wave is simply the suppression of capital punishment. Only fear of the gallows will stay the arm of the criminal.—Pitt Journal, Paris.

Business and Honor

THERE isn't any honor in business any more," said the Man cynically. "It's all a matter of money. A fellow will do anything for money, nowadays, especially if competition is keen. Get the business, that's the standard, no matter how you get it."

"Perhaps," said the Girl, "in some cases, but not in all. And let me tell you that the matter of doing anything for money, works out in more ways than you think."

"I know a case," she went on, "of a professional woman, very well known to the American public, who agreed to do a certain thing for a certain company for two hundred dollars a week. She hadn't signed the contract. But she had given her word. Another company heard of it, offered her two hundred and fifty dollars, and she immediately accepted the second offer."

"Just as I said," interrupted the Man, "Anything for money. The fellow who offered her two hundred and fifty dollars was getting the business, and the public will hear her just the same whether she broke her word or not. And if somebody else had offered her three hundred dollars she would have taken that, if she could have squirmed out of her contract."

"That's not the end of it, though," smiled the Girl. "I know another professional woman in the same line of work," she continued. "And this woman is at the head of her profession. The other isn't a candle to her. She was offered two hundred dollars a week to do just what the first woman is doing, and she accepted the offer. She hadn't signed the contract either. She had simply given her word. Another company heard of it, and knowing what a 'catch' she was, offered her six hundred dollars a week. Did she take it? Not a bit of it. She said her word was as good as her bond, and that no money on earth would tempt her to break good faith. And she is sticking to her two hundred dollar a week bargain. Business people rarely need to make a contract with her, though sometimes the business they do with her runs into a hundred thousand dollars a year, and it she broke her word it would ruin them. But they know if she gives her word it will never be broken."

"Just wait," went on the Girl as the Man started to say something.

"There you have honor, the first kind. And no doubt some people there are who will say she is foolish. But let me tell you, there's more to it than just living up to one's word, though this is quite worth while. But this second woman is the greatest artist in her line in the world. The whole world acknowledges her supremacy. And don't you suppose her ability to interpret all that is fine and beautiful in life comes from her appreciation of what is true and honorable? The woman, or the man either, who will break her word or his word for fifty dollars or a hundred thousand dollars, lacks that comprehension of the finest things of life that enables her to do great work. So you see, while honor is being true to principles, it comes out of qualities that mean the accomplishing of certain things on the practical side of life. If you come down to the mere question of money this woman makes more out of her profession, a hundred times over every year of her life, than the other, because she is the finer artist. She gets the money back by being true to her word, because being true to her word develops certain qualities that are, in the ultimate count, money-makers; though that is by no means the reason she is true to her word. But I am just contending that there is a practical side that we do not often think about, to honor and such qualities. We have always regarded them as purely ethical and we are beginning to look upon them as beautiful illusions. But it strikes me there is a pretty good practical foundation to them, and that the man who thinks honor is all moonshine and that the only road for success nowadays is to do anything for money is ultimately on the losing side."

"Well, maybe," said the Man.

Heart and Home Problems

MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a farmer's wife, and often get lonely, as we live quite a distance from neighbors. It is not so bad when I am at work, which is most of the time, but my spare hours go slowly. Please advise me.

MRS. JENNIE K. I could counsel you better if I knew more of your tastes. Good reading would be my refuge. I was similarly situated. Worthwhile books and the magazine have helped many a woman through loneliness.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) What can be done to keep the hair from falling out? (2) If a girl of sixteen is five feet five inches tall and weighs 125 pounds, is she too large? (3) Should a young man treat a girl friend the way he would his sister? (4) If you were I, would you introduce a girl to the young man who is going with you if you know she was a flirt and wanted to meet him to try to break you up? (5) How should one treat a girl who meets every day if she does not like the girl's manner with the boys?

DIXIE GIRL. (1) Make an ointment of two drams of precipitated sulphur and one ounce of petrolatum and rub a little in the hair when taking a shampoo. Repeat the treatment as often as necessary. (2) The weight you mention is a bit too large for a girl of sixteen. (3) I hardly know what your question implies. A young man should treat his sister and his girl friend. (4) I should be very reluctant to introduce a girl to a young man if I knew she meant to make trouble. (5) There is no reason why you should not be friendly if the girl's character is correct. You need not be cordial, however.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Will you please tell me a solution to use in setting colors in cotton goods? (2) Can you inform me of any special method for removing blood stains from the feathers of a bird's wing? MRS. S. P. (1) A tablespoon of turpentine in a quart of salt water will make a good solution for setting colors. Vinegar may be used instead of turpentine. (2) Try removing the stain first with cold water. Use a little ammonia to finish the work.

A Woman's Observations

By Edna K. Wooley.

HE WAS HARD TO CONVINCE. The German emperor, it is said, selects his wife's hats. Therefore, according to the Paris newspapers, there is no danger of a world's war being planned by the German emperor, for a man engaged in such piffling exercise as picking out his wife's millinery, couldn't be expected to do anything so strenuous as world-war.

The German emperor would not make a successful American husband. If there is anything that a man, self-respecting American woman respects, it is propriety on the part of her worse half to buy her wearing apparel. Even a suggestion as to the selection must be most delicately delivered if husband is to be influenced in any but a contrarywise way.

Some men, still harboring the old-fashioned idea, undertake to buy all the family supplies and wearing apparel. So anxious are they to keep hold of the purse strings, and so confident of their own financial ability and good taste, that they permit their women folk to do nothing but the housework and tend the babies and minister to the physical comfort of the master of their destinies. That was pretty generally the old order of things. But today it is decidedly the back-number man who doesn't recognize that a wife not only has some right in the selection of her own clothes and the household supplies which she has to manipulate, but that she is usually a far more able manager and has much better taste than he has concerning such matters. Indeed, many husbands go so far as to depend upon their wives to select the garments that clothe the masculine head of the household. My husband used to buy all the household supplies when we were first married," said one wife. "I never knew just what he was going to bring home, and what he did bring never fitted in with what I had. The thought just happened to suit him at the time and without any regard whatever to the time it took to prepare for the meals, or the combination it would make with what I had on hand. I never knew just how to plan the meals and things were in a regular hodge-podge all the time. It was expensive, too, because it made a lot of waste. I never could plan ahead and so I never could save myself work. And he was so thick-headed about it that he just wouldn't understand until I got him to let me give him a month's demonstration on a certain allowance, after he had kept a calculation for a month of what he himself had spent. When he got better meals and found it cost less money, on my plan, he gave in.

"But it was hard work to convince him. He was brought up in that old-fashioned way, you see."

The Kitchen Cabinet

It isn't a book and a shadow on the wall. It is a kitchen cabinet. It is in doors or out; with the green leaves whispering overhead. On the streets cryers all about. Where I made roads all at my ease. With for the news and old. For a little good book where to look, is better to me than gold.

EXPERT LAUNDERING.

There are people, and those who should know better, who labor under the impression that laundry work is merely a matter of muscle, and that any one with the physical strength and little intelligence will make a good laundress. There was never a more mistaken idea, as we have learned by sad experience.

A successful laundress must be an educated woman, something of a chemist, a good fair amount of judgment, and a conscientious, painstaking worker.

There is knowledge to be used in the choice of soap and starches, in the removing of spots and stains.

To do the right kind of laundry work it is necessary to know how to wash the most delicate colors without fading them.

Most colors may be retained by a salt or vinegar bath, a tablespoonful to a quart of water. A general rule is, to immerse all light colors in salt water, and dark colors in vinegar.

Blue is a delicate color, yet any shade may be permanently fixed by being soaked before it is laundered for half an hour in eight or ten quarts of water in which is dissolved an ounce of sugar of lead.

Green is another frail color; a lump of alum in the rinse water will set this color.

There are three important things to consider in washing colored clothes, after the treatment which sets the color. First, they should never be washed in boiling hot water; second, soap should never be rubbed on, but always dissolved, and third, they should always be dried as quickly as possible in the shade and ironed, when possible, before they are quite dry, and on the wrong side.

If a garment is only slightly soiled, the rubbing and soaking in the soapy water will cleanse it, then the rinsing should be very thorough. The whole process should be done as quickly as possible.

The most careful washer may ruin the result of her work by careless ironing.

To be a good ironer means much practice and infinite patience.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

THE GIRL WHO CAN'T FORGET.

I CALL her "The Girl Who Can't Forget," but that doesn't mean that she never forgets anything. On the contrary, there are many things which she forgets with the greatest facility, as for instance, when her mother wants her to do some little errand in town; but there is one thing she most emphatically cannot forget for one instant, and that is herself.

No matter what she is doing or where she is; no matter how powerful are the other attractions which one might reasonably expect to distract her attention, she keeps right on thinking of herself and how she is appearing and impressing other people. In her mind's eye she is continually upon a stage and the rest of the world is continually in the auditorium.

For instance, a wonderful new baby, the first born of one of her girl friends, is being displayed to her and half a dozen others. Apparently she is the most devoted and delighted of them all. She kneels at the baby's feet and goes into raptures over his adorable hands; she coos to him most musically, and holds out her arms to him, and pleads to be allowed to hold him just an instant. One would think that she had quite forgotten herself in her delight over the baby. As a matter of fact, she isn't thinking of the baby at all—except as an actor thinks of a good stage setting. On the contrary, she is thinking of HERSELF and how sweet her pose of baby lover must seem, and she is wondering if the men in the party are notling how deftly she handles the baby and how prettily she entertains them.

She goes to an entertainment, and when it is over she rushes up to congratulate the committee or the performers. Apparently she is all eager self-forgetfulness in her pretty congratulations. In reality, the congratulations are a very minor matter with her. She is thinking primarily of how prettily she delivers them and how sweet everyone must think her because she always remembers to do these thoughtful little things.

When she sits among the audience at a play or entertainment, she appears to be absorbed in what is going on upon the stage. Indeed, she makes most witty and enthusiastic comments upon it to her companions. Surely this time she has forgotten herself? Don't you believe it. All the time she is wondering if that good looking man behind her admires her enthusiasm and hears her witty comments. You see, she is "The Girl Who Can't Forget."

"You will be happier in life," says some wise person, "if you are willing to give up your sole for a part in the show." Few of us are willing to give up having any sole at all. We want the center of the stage some of the time. That's just human nature. But to attempt to pre-empt that desirable point every moment of one's existence, and to fancy one has it when one has not, is quite another thing. Don't do it if you want to be happy or if you want to be loved. Don't be a GIRL (or man) WHO CAN'T FORGET.

HOUSEHOLD TALKS

by Henrietta D. Grauel

The linen and cut glass will trick out one's table so beautifully, charming the eye so fully and add so much to even the most substantial, every day meal where they appear, that they render even the most substantial every day fare more inviting. Is it any wonder every woman longs to possess these things?

And having acquired lunch cloth, center pieces, doilies, goblets, napkins, shakers and finger bowls she, of course, wants them to retain their beauty as long as possible.

Cut glass is much less expensive than it was and the designs do not change. Never than cut glass is the portable, tempting, gleaming rock crystal, and still never is the fascinating Bohemian glass with its wonderfully graceful floral decorations. But a table may be made very attractive with glass of simple designs. If good shapes are chosen and it is polished until gleaming.

Thickness of glass is not necessarily an evidence of strength; it breaks as quickly as thin when placed in hot water or when hot drinks are poured into it, so that all kinds require the most careful handling.

Cold water with enough soda or borax and ammonia added to soften it is the best medium for washing glassware, especially if it has contained milk or oil, for warm soapy water clouds it. A soft flannel wash cloth is preferred by most people to the ordinary linen one. After washing in the cold water, rinse in warm and dry without first draining and polish. The highest gloss is given by rubbing with tissue or other soft paper.

Water bottles and decanters are the most obstinate to clean of all glassware; a few bubbles of a solution of bird shot placed in them with the softened water and all shaken vigorously will cut the sediment or the coating of lime that has formed.

Glass vases with pointed stems hold the daisies and flower stalks most temptingly, but soda and ammonia will remove this. If it is a stubborn case run a long feather down into the point and work it about a bit. The dirt is loosened.

Who and shorter glasses give their owners many a vexing moment, for even the most careful forget sometimes forget to grasp the bowl in one

DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN
Food Specialist

IS MONODIET THEORY CORRECT?

"Dr. T. criticizes the indiscriminate mixing of foods, as you do, but advocates the use of a little meat, and does not endorse the monodiet. How are we to know which is right? A reader asks. The admission that foods should not be mixed indiscriminately leads inevitably to the monodiet, since no two foods are perfectly compatible; and meat is more incompatible with any other food than any others are among themselves, as we see in the striking differentiation of the alimentary canals of the carnivora and the herbivora. Professional opinion and practice shows a balance in favor of special exclusive diets in extreme cases, as the milk diet in Bright's disease and some other cases, rice in others, buttermilk in others, and it follows that better health and greater efficiency could be maintained in health if such a system were followed. I advise, or report, only what I have proved by proper test, and quote in support of those conclusions the most distinguished authority and results of experiments of others as they are made public.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Gazette, June 7, 1872.—The Party Last Night. Among the notable events in our social history is the grand party given last evening at the residence of Edward Mekey in the third ward, by Mrs. Edward Mekey, Mrs. P. E. Stevens, and Miss Gertrude P. Mekey. Elliptical in point of attendance and the richness of its appointments all previous efforts of the season, it was an occasion which will be treasured up in the memories of the participants as one full of the enjoyment peculiar to an assemblage of friends with our full quota of beauty and fashion. To attempt a description of the intricacies of toilet there displayed would be a hopeless task for one who recognizes beauty in the human form adorned simply because it is beautiful, without caring to designate in his mind the particular causes which contribute to the aggregation of comeliness. The party had been in the mind of most of the lady attendants for a week or two past and it is not to be supposed that so much much time would be given to the labor of preparation without some visible results. We said ladies, but now it occurs to us that we must include gentlemen in the above insertion for they too, presented indications of studied care and a determined intention to appear to an advantage, even down to the polish of their faultless boots. It was the intention to devote the pleasant grounds about the residence of Mr. Mekey to the use of their guests of the evening, and a spacious dancing hall had been erected for the accommodation of those who favored the entertainment. But the rain which fell almost continuously from yesterday morning until this morning prevented the fulfillment of their plans in this direction and the enjoyment of the occasion was concentrated beneath the roof of Mr. Mekey's dwelling. Nearly two hundred persons attended this party, Chicago, Bolot, Madison, Oshkosh and other neighboring cities being well represented.

Brief items. At the adjourned meeting of the common council held last evening the fire department committee, to whom was referred a communication from the fire department, at the last meeting, asking for an appropriation of $1,500 as payment for services, reported in favor of allowing each fireman $20 a year, with exception of the chief engineer and the engineers of the steamers. The report was referred to the city attorney on the motion of Alderman Eldredge.

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY

Some unexpected loss is indicated and you will need strength of purpose and self control not to make the situation worse. Some influential friend will be willing to help you and make your prospects brighter.

Those born today will be more successful in employ and will naturally be careless of their health and safety.

A DIFFERENCE

The Romancer—When you have money, people will shake you by the hand—
The Philosopher—When it's gone
they'll shake you altogether.

Strive to Be Kind.
Is not the sin of sin unkindness?
Because of it tears flow, hopes die,
friendships are strained, and hearts well nigh broken. Not to be kind widens the breach between rich and poor, labor and capital, the fortunate and the unfortunate. Just to be kind heartens the discouraged, strengthens the weak, and makes heavy loads easy to carry. Be kind to those about you.
It costs you little or nothing and is the best investment you can make. The returns will come back in compound interest. Your employees, your friends, your household, even your foes, will respond to kindness.—L. Webster Chapman.

the greater portion of the summer

A GIRL OF THE LIMBERLOST

By GENE STRATTON-PORTER

Copyright, 1908, by Doubleday, Page & Co.

"Some days his face was dreadfully sad, some days it was so determined a little child could see the force in it, and once it was radiant. That day the Swamp Angel was with him. I can't tell you what she was like. I never saw any one who resembled her. He stopped near here to show her a bird's nest. Then they went on to a sort of flower room he had made, and he sang for her. By the time he left I had got bold enough to come out on the trail, and I met the big Scotchman Freckles lived with. He saw me catching moths and butterflies, so he took me to the flower room and gave me everything there. I don't dare come alone often, and so I can't keep it up as he did, but you can see something of how it was."

Elmora led the way and Ammon followed. The outlines of the room were not distinct, because many of the trees were gone, but Elmora showed how it had been as neatly as she could. "The swamp is almost ruined now," she said. "The maples, walnuts and cherries are all gone. The talking trees are the only things left worth while."

"The talking trees?" "I don't understand," commented Ammon. "No wonder," laughed Elmora. "They are my discovery. You know all trees whisper and talk during the summer, but there are two that have so much to say they keep on the whole winter when the others are silent. The beeches and oaks so love to talk they cling to their dead, dry leaves. In the winter the winds are stiffest and blow most, so these trees whisper, chatter, sob, laugh and at times roar until the sound is deafening. When the air is cold and clear, the world very white and the harp music swelling, then the talking trees tell the strengthening, uplifting things."

"You wonderful girl!" cried Ammon. "What a woman you will be!"

"If I am a woman at all worth while it will be because I have had such wonderful opportunities," said Elmora. "Not every girl is driven to the forest to learn what God has to say there. Here are the remains of Freckles' room. The time the Angel came here he sang to her and I listened. I never heard music like that. No wonder she loved him. Everyone who knows him did, and they do yet. Try that log. It makes a fairly good seat. This old store box was his treasure house, just as it is now mine. I will show you my dearest possession. I do not dare take it home because mother can't overcome her dislike for it. It was my father's, and in some ways I am like him. This is the strongest."

CHAPTER XX.
Wherein the Limberlost Sings For Ammon.

ELMORA lifted the violin and began to play. She wore a school dress of green gingham, with the sleeves rolled to the elbows. She seemed a part of the setting all around her. Her head alone like a small dark sun, and her face never had seemed so rose flushed and fair. From the instant she drew the bow her lips parted and her eyes fastened on something far away in the swamp, and never did she give more of that impression of feeling for her notes and repeating something audible only to her. Ammon was too near to get the best effect. He arose and stepped back several yards, leaning against a large tree, looking and listening with all his soul.

locked it and hid the key in the rotting wood at the end of a log. Then she came to him. Ammon stood looking at her curiously. "I wonder," he said, "what people would say to that?" "I did it in public once," said Elmora. "I think they liked it fairly well. I had a note yesterday offering me the leadership of the high school orchestra in Onashash. I would gladly play for nothing just to be able to express myself."

"Give up the college idea," said Ammon. "Your mind does not need that sort of development. It is far past it."

"Do you really mean that you would give up all idea of going to college, if you were me?"

"If you could only realize it, my girl, you are in college, and have been always. You are in the school of experience, and it has taught you to think, and given you a heart. God knows I envy the man who wins it! I wouldn't even advise you to read too many books on your lines. You get your stuff first hand, and you know that you are right. What you should do is to begin early to practice self expression. Don't wait too long to tell us about the woods as you know them."

Not until then did he remember that Mrs. Comstock was somewhere very near.

"Should we go out to the trail and see if your mother is coming?" he asked.

"Here she is now," said Elmora. "Gracious, it's a mercy I got that violin put away in time! I didn't expect to find it here!"

There was one tense breath, then—"I could try," said Elmora simply. Ammon rushed to the rescue. "We must go to work," he said, and began examining a walnut branch for Luna moth eggs. Elmora joined him while Mrs. Comstock drew her embroidery from her pocket and sat on a log. She said she was tired; they could come for her when they were ready to go. She could hear their voices all around her, until she called them at supper time. When they came to her she stood waiting on the trail, the sewing in one hand, the violin in the other. Elmora became very white, but took the trail without a word. Ammon, unable to see a woman carry a heavier load than he, reached for the instrument. Mrs. Comstock shook her head. She carried the violin home, took it into her room and closed the door. Elmora turned to Ammon.

"If she destroys that I will die!" cried the girl.

"She won't," said Ammon. "You misunderstand her. She wouldn't have said what she did about the owl if she had meant to. She is your mother. No one loves you as she does. Trust her! Myself—I think she is simply great!"

Mrs. Comstock returned with serene face, and all of them helped with the supper. When it was over Ammon and Elmora sorted and classified the afternoon's specimens and made a trip to the woods to paint and light several trees for moths. When they came back Mrs. Comstock sat in the arbor, and they joined her. She went into the cabin, but she returned almost instantly, laying the violin and bow across Elmora's lap. "I wish you would give us a little music," she said.

The violin played on until Elmora was so tired she scarcely could lift the bow. Then Ammon went home. The women walked to the gate with him and stood watching him from sight.

"That's what I call one decent young man!" said Mrs. Comstock. "To see him sit in with us, you'd think he'd been raised in a cabin, but it's likely he's always had the very cream of the pot."

"Yes, I think so," laughed Elmora. "But it hasn't hurt him. I've never seen anything I could criticize. He's teaching me so much unconsciously. You know he graduated from Harvard and has several degrees in law. He's coming in the morning."

Next morning Ammon came early, and he and Elmora went at once to the fields and woods. Mrs. Comstock had come to believe so implicitly in him that she now stayed at home to complete the work before she joined them, and when she did she often sat sewing, leaving them wandering hours at a time. It was noon before she finished, and then she packed a basket of lunch. She found Elmora and Philip near the violet patch, which was still in its prime. They lunched together. Then Mrs. Comstock carried the basket back to the cabin, and Ammon and Elmora sat on a log, resting for a few minutes.

"Do you remember your promise about those violets?" asked Ammon. "Tomorrow is Edith's birthday, and if I'd put them special delivery on the morning train she'd get them in the late afternoon. They ought to keep well that long. She leaves for the north next day."

"Of course you can have them," said Elmora. "We will quit long enough before supper to gather a great bunch. They can be packed so they will carry all right. They should be perfectly fresh, especially if we gather them this evening and let them drink all night."

Then they went back to hunt Catalpa. It was a long and a happy search. Ammon came to Elmora at dusk, daintily holding one by the body, its dark wings showing and its long, slender legs trying to clasp his fingers and creep from his hold.

Elmora studied the black wings intently. "I surely believe that's Sappho," she murmured. "The Bird Woman will be overjoyed."

"We must get the cyanide jar quick!" said Ammon. "I wouldn't lose her for $100. Such a chance as she led me!"

Elmora got the jar and began gathering up paraphernalia.

"When you make a kind like that," she said, "it's the right time to quit and feel glorious all the rest of that day. I tell you I'm proud. We will go now. We have barely time to carry out our plans before supper. Won't mother be pleased to see that we have a rare one?"

"I'd like to see anyone more pleased than I am!" said Philip Ammon. "I feel as if I'd earned my supper to-night. Let's go."

He took the greater part of the load and stepped aside for Elmora to precede him. She went down the path, broken by the grazing cattle, toward the cabin and nearest the violet patch she stopped, laid down her net, and the things she carried. Ammon passed her and hurried forward.

"Aren't you going to?" began Elmora.

"I'm going to get this moth home in a hurry," he said. "This cyanide has lost its strength, and it's not working well. We need some fresh in the jar."

He had forgotten the violets. Elmora stood looking after him, a curious expression on her face. One second so—then she picked up the net and followed. At the blue bordered pool she paused and half turned back, then she closed her lips firmly and went on. It was 9 o'clock when Ammon said goodnight and started to town. His gay whistle floated to them from the farthest corner of the Limberlost. Elmora complained of being tired, so she went to her room and to bed. But sleep would not come.

Thought was racing in her brain, and the longer she lay the wider awake she grew. At last she softly slipped from bed, lighted her lamp and began opening boxes. Then she went to work. Two hours later a beautiful birch bark basket, strongly and artistically made, stood on her table. She sat at a tiny alarm clock at 3, returned to bed and fell asleep instantly.

She was on the floor with the first tinkle of the alarm, and hastily dressing, she picked up the basket and a box to fit it, crept down the stairs and out to the violet patch. When the basket was filled to overflowing, she set it in the stout pasteboard box, packed it solid with mosses, tied it firmly and slipped under the cord a note.

Then she took a short cut across the woods and walked swiftly to Onashash. It was after 6 o'clock, but all of the city she wished to avoid were asleep. She had no trouble in finding a small boy out, and she stood at a distance waiting while he rang Dr. Ammon's bell and delivered the package for Philip to a maid, with the note which was to be given him at once.

On the way home through the woods passing some baited trees she collected the captive moths. She entered the kitchen with them so naturally that Mrs. Comstock made no comment. After breakfast Elmora went to her room, cleared away all trace of the night's work and was out in the arbor mounting moths when Ammon came down the road. "I am tired sitting," she said to her mother. "I think I will walk a few rods and meet him."

"Who's a tramp?" called Ammon from afar.

"Well, not you!" retorted Elmora. "Confess that you forgot!"

"Completely," said Ammon. "But luckily it would not have been fatal. I wrote fully last week to send Edith something appropriate and handsome today, with my card."
